Dear Sir / Madame:

RE: Multi-Use Pathway – Johnson Street from Guildford Way to Barnet Hwy

As part of Coquitlam's capital budget, a new multi-use pathway will be constructed along the west side of Johnson Street, between Guildford Way and Barnet Highway. This project is part of the City's crosstown cycling route, which traverses the City from David Avenue to North Road.

The scope of work includes the construction of a three metre wide asphalt pathway, new pathway lighting, new bike push buttons at all intersections and boulevard landscaping.

Construction is anticipated to begin in September with completion in December, weather dependent. The selected contractor will provide you with the actual construction start date prior to commencing work.

As part of the construction staging for the project, the contractor will be installing new lane markings along Johnson Street, between Guildford Way and Barnet Hwy. This work will take place over two nights, between the hours of 8:00pm and 6:00am. All other construction work will take place during daytime hours, Monday through Friday, between the hours of 7:00am and 6:00pm. Traffic flow will be impacted during construction, and traffic delays are to be expected, but every effort will be made to minimize disruption.
